

2013 Kentucky Residential Code

Energy Conservation Construction Principles

HOSTED BY: The Kentucky Department of Housing, Buildings and Construction (DHBC) & Department of Energy Development and Independence (DEDI)

WHERE & WHEN: Classes will be held on various dates at locations around the state – see table/website below

INSTRUCTORS: Southface Energy Institute

FOCUS: Understanding the principles behind code requirements and how to quickly apply these code-compliant techniques to your current construction practices

WHO SHOULD ATTEND: Home builders, subcontractors, construction professionals, code officials, and other interested individuals

Upcoming 2016 Classes (each class is $25)

Course	Date	Location	Register
Common Compliance Challenges: Observations from the Field	May 3	Lexington	http://bit.ly/1RPIH0v
Thermal Envelope - Air Sealing and Insulation Principles	May 4	Burlington	http://bit.ly/1NlgkBU
Thermal Envelope - Air Sealing and Insulation Principles	May 5	Lexington	http://bit.ly/1VjGCgi
HVAC Sizing and Design Principles	May 17	Morehead	http://bit.ly/1ToKaMd
HVAC Sizing and Design Principles	May 19	Louisville	http://bit.ly/1Y4wxRz
HVAC Sizing and Design Principles	May 20	Florence	http://bit.ly/1Y4wNAb
Thermal Envelope - Air Sealing and Insulation Principles	August 30	Louisville	http://bit.ly/22fJATg
Common Compliance Challenges: Observations from the Field	August 31	Louisville	http://bit.ly/1RhWKqX

To view the full 2016 schedule, please visit: www.mwalliance.org/kycodetraining

This training program is subsidized with funding from the U.S. Department of Energy. Images are from www.greenbuildingadvisor.com and www.comfortsolutionsnm.com.

